KANSAS

Assisted Living Facilities

Kansas regulates assisted living facilities that admit residents with dementia, requiring that these facilities must provide in-service education on the treatment and appropriate response to persons who exhibit behaviors associated with dementia. In addition, before assignment to the special care section of an assisted living, each staff member must be provided with a training program related to specific needs of the residents to be served, and evidence of completion of the training must be maintained in the employee's personnel records.

Adult Day Facilities

Kansas regulates adult day facilities that admit residents with dementia, requiring that these facilities must provide in-service education on the treatment and appropriate response to persons who exhibit behaviors associated with dementia.

Home Plus Facilities

Home Plus is a residence caring for 12 or fewer residents. By statute, personnel of any Home Plus where services are provided for residents with dementia shall be required to take annual dementia care training. This training must be provided at orientation and at least annually thereafter, and must include education regarding the treatment and appropriate response to persons who exhibit behaviors associated with dementia.

Medicaid Waiver

Kansas has a Medicaid waiver to cover services in an assisted living.
