UTAH

Utah has no relevant statutes.

Assisted Living

Regulations provide that staff in assisted living facilities must have training in the special needs of the dementia/Alzheimer’s resident and that, in a secure unit, at least one (1) staff with documented training in dementia care must be present at all times.

Adult Day Facilities

Utah regulation mandates that when an adult day care has at least one half of its patients diagnosed with Alzheimer’s or related dementias, there must be one (1) staff for every six (6) patients, and staff training is required.

Medicaid Waiver

Five (5) Medicaid waivers provide for payment in assisted living facilities, but each has different eligibility criteria.
